IMPORTANT

A Proposer for insurance is under a duty to disclose all facts and matters which are material to Insurers/Underwriters' consideration of the risk and also not to misrepresent any material fact. This duty continues up until there is a concluded contract of Insurance. Any failure to do so will entitle Insurers/Underwriters, if they so wish, to treat any insurance which may be agreed as if it had never existed. Please, therefore, check the completeness and accuracy of each answer which has been given.
